The auto plunged off a highway into the swollen river and floated about 250 feet before stopping at the dam. The driver, Mrs. Clarence Taylor, 39, of Napanee, climbed to the roof of the car and was rescued. The vehicle was only slightly damaged. (AP Wirephoto)

Kin Of 2 Pilots Lost Over Cuba Asking For Help

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Two U.S. senators and a representative have been asked to aid two families who were left without means of support when a pair of American fliers disappeared on a reported secret mission over Cuba in December 1961.

The two, Robert Thompson, 28, of Charleston, W.Va., and Robert Swanner, 26, of Miami, left Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 14, 1961 in a twin-engine private plane after telling friends they had been hired for a leaflet-dropping mission over Cuba.

The most positive word so far on their fate came recently when a refugee, brought from Cuba aboard the mercy ship Shirley Lykes, told newsmen he had seen the plane crash after it had been hit by Cuban antiaircraft fire, killing both pilots.

No Proof Of Deaths
The case is reminiscent of that involving four former American airmen who were shot down over Cuba while flying B26 bombers in the Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961 with one difference.

The widows of the four have been receiving regular compensation checks from a trust fund set up by Double Check Corp. of Miami. Double Check said it had hired the men as an agent for a Central American group which it declined to identify.

Mrs. Thompson, who has three children, and Mrs. Swanner, who has a young son, have received small amounts from friends of the fliers.

Lacking official confirmation of their husbands' deaths, they have not been able to collect on insurance policies or receive Social Security survivors' compensation.

The pleas of Beatrice Thompson and Joyce Swanner have been sent to Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., and Rep. Clifford G. McIntyre, R-Maine. The senators' Washington offices have said they will look into the Social Security payments problem.

After her husband vanished, Mrs. Thompson and her sons Michael, 9, and Ricky, 8, and daughter Debbie, 6, lived at Melbourne, Fla. Later the family moved to the home of Thompson's mother, Blanche Debolt, at Charleston, W.Va.

Living On Pills
Last month she took the children to live with her father, Lawrence Paradis, at his home in Presque Isle, Maine. The Paradis home was damaged by fire March 20. Mrs. Thompson, who lost some of her husband's mementos in the fire, lives with the children in an apartment in Presque Isle.

Mrs. Swanner and her son David, 6, continued to live in Florida for a time after her husband vanished. Then she moved to her parents' home at Indianola, Miss. "It was like a nightmare at first," said Mrs. Thompson. "I got some welfare aid in Melbourne, but it wasn't enough. I tried to work, but I was unable to continue. I was living on pills to relieve the tension."

"I tried everything—the FBI, the Border Patrol, the Coast Guard and even called the White House. "Mr. Andrew Hatcher (assistant press secretary) at the White House said he would look into it, but that was the last I heard."

Mrs. Swanner, 24, said she, too, had run into official silence when she tried to find out what had happened to her husband.

House Tries Again To Save 65 Dying Bills In Lansing

LANSING (AP) — Undismayed by a Senate snub that derailed their original plan, House Republican leaders were ready today with a new resolution aimed at bringing some 65 dead bills back to life.

They planned to ask Senate concurrence on a resolution extending the deadline for passage of bills in the house of origin through next Wednesday.

Action on the matter was to precede House consideration today of some 16 tax and appropriations bills already given preliminary approval.

Among the bills were six dealing with portions of Gov. George Romney's proposed $547 million 1963-64 budget. All money bills required approval by the House today.

One Vote Short
The resolution extending the deadline for the others was expected to sail easily through the House—over the objections of outgunned Democrats — and GOP leaders predicted the Senate would accept it on Monday.

The 65 bills were termed "just cats and dogs" by members of both parties, but individual sponsors were pressing to have their favorites instilled with new life after they died at the Wednesday midnight deadline.

An earlier attempt failed when the Senate Business Committee fell one vote short of the four needed to bring an extension resolution to the floor.

Gov. Romney's office was backing the House proposal to extend the deadline through Wednesday. Romney said he felt it would be better to have the bills considered than allowed to die.

Tension Mounts Over Cuba; Jets Shoot At U.S. Vessel

Kennedy Calls Inner Council Strategy Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called the executive committee of the National Security Council into session today amid a new wave of tension over Cuba.

The inner strategy group, formed during last fall's Cuban crisis, was faced with these developments at its noon meeting:

1. Thursday night's report by a U.S. vessel that two unidentified jet planes shot at it in international waters off Cuba's north coast. The 4,600-ton ship, the Floridian, unhit, sailed on toward Miami under U.S. escort.

2. The withdrawal of Soviet soldiers from Cuba, which the United States deems disappointingly slow. Latest U.S. estimates place 13,000 to 14,000 Soviet military personnel still on the island.

3. Hit-and-run raids by anti-Castro exiles, which Washington fears could make the Caribbean situation worse.

Attackers Not Identified
Word of the attack on the Floridian was announced by the State Department Thursday night.

It said the U.S. Coast Guard reported receiving a message from the U.S. motor ship—en route from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami—that at about 6:05 p.m. "two unidentified jet aircraft had fired bursts across the Floridian's bow and stern without striking the ship."

Beyond this, Washington authorities had few details.

Last month two MIG jets with Cuban markings fired on a U.S. shrimp boat, the Ala, while it was drifting, its motors out of commission, in the Florida Straits about 60 miles off the Cuban coast.

The United States vigorously protested the attack and Kennedy ordered the Defense Department to make sure that "action will be taken against any vessel or aircraft which executes an attack against a vessel or aircraft of the United States over international waters in the Caribbean."

The Castro regime denied its planes had fired on the shrimp boat, which was not flying a flag.

More Soviets Leaving
On the Soviet troops question, U.S. sources said several hundred more Soviet personnel have been observed leaving Cuba since Kennedy estimated March 21 that 3,000 troops had been pulled out.

Some 400 were reported to have steamed from Cuba aboard the Soviet liner Baltika last weekend. With the earlier estimate of Soviet military strength in Cuba at 17,000, the withdrawals would lower the number left to less than 14,000. This is a slower withdrawal rate than Washington had hoped for and authorities said it is not yet known here what kind of personnel have been sent back to the Soviet Union—whether combat soldiers or technicians.

Kennedy indicated that by the end of March the U.S. government would have a clearer idea of what the Soviet withdrawal amounts to. Presumably this was one matter to be taken up by the White House

Canadian Crash Pair Recovering

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory (AP) — "We have been happy for 17 years, but this is the beginning again," said Teresa Flores after her reunion Thursday night with her husband, who survived seven nightmarish weeks in the Canadian North.

Mrs. Flores arrived from their home in San Bruno, Calif., and rushed to the bedside of her pilot-electrician husband, Ralph, who is recovering in the Whitehorse General Hospital from his plane crash Feb. 4, and the ordeal that followed.

"I don't want to let him out of my sight any more," said Mrs. Flores, 39. "Yes, I'll stay till he goes. I don't know when they will let him."

"We all knew he was alive. The oldest twins felt it more strongly. When I cried, they told me he was all right. He knew what he was doing and he was strong."

The couple has six children. Dr. Nesta James said Flores' general condition is good, and he can get around on crutches. He suffered a broken jaw, a broken rib, some frostbite and lost 51 pounds.

Helen Klaben, 21, Brooklyn coed, who also survived the ordeal after Flores' plane crashed, was transferred to another hospital in Fairbanks, Alaska, Thursday. A doctor there said she will rest a few days while it is decided when she can go home.

Doctors in Whitehorse had said her frostbitten right toes would have to be amputated. The operation has not been performed.

Hungry Chinese Loot Storehouse

MACAO (AP) — Refugees from Red China reported today that Communist authorities executed more than 20 hungry Chinese who ransacked a food storehouse in February in the coastal city of Swatow.

The refugees also reported anti-Communists destroyed a railway bridge in South China and injured several railway guards early this month.

Fire Kills Four In Boston Hotel

BOSTON (AP) — Four persons perished and at least 25 were injured today in a pre-dawn fire that swept the Sherby Biltmore Hotel on Massachusetts Avenue.

Firemen carried about 75 persons down ladders from the old brick building. Among those rescued were members of the cast of "The Sound of Music" now playing in a downtown theater.

Most of the cast was attending a party on an upper floor. They were unable to leave by a door and climbed out a window. About 40 of them lined up on a narrow ledge and waited until firemen raised aerial ladders.

The dead—two men and two women—were not immediately identified.

Names of three of the injured were on the danger list at city hospital. Most of the others were released after treatment.

A general alarm was sounded

Fighters Escort Merchant Ship To Miami Docks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The captain of the merchant ship Floridian said today two Soviet-built MIGs fired shots across the bow and stern of his vessel Thursday 20 miles off the coast of Cuba and he flashed an immediate distress call to the Coast Guard in Miami.

U.S. Navy jet from Key West, Fla., did not reach the scene of the incident until 55 minutes later, the second engineer, Norman Teeples, of Dania, Fla., reported.

"The planes appeared and circled the ship for about 20 minutes," Capt. Curtis Olson told a news conference aboard the ship shortly after the Floridian reached here under escort of U.S. fighter planes.

After the first firing pass by the hostile jets, Olson said, his reaction was: "This couldn't be happening to us."

Splashes In Ocean

It was the second incident of its kind reported in a month. Two MIGs with Cuban markings fired at a U.S. shrimp boat 60 miles off the Cuban coast last month. The vessel was not hit.

The Floridian was traveling at 15.4 knots when the planes approached and stepped its speed to 17 knots during the strafing, but remained on normal course, Olson said.

The third firing pass was across the bow at less than 100 yards, he said.

Radioman Donald Fisher said he was off duty and just "roaming around the ship" when he heard the first burst of fire and "someone said, 'Oh, that was just a sonic boom.'"

Fisher lives at 51 Redlands Road, West Roxbury, Mass.

"Then we saw splashes and we knew it was no sonic boom," he estimated the first shots were at 5:40 or 5:45 p.m. and he sent the first distress call at 5:55 p.m.

Olson said 15 to 30 shots were fired by the planes on their third pass.

"They were explosive shells," he said. "They exploded in the water and I observed a pale gray smoke."

Mate Takes Pictures
Harold Keane of Philadelphia, chief mate, photographed the MIGs in action, Olson said, "but I believe those pictures are in Washington now."

Olson said he was on the bridge when the first shots were fired "without warning." He identified the shots as coming from machine cannon.

"The planes were very dark green in color," he said. "There appeared to be a white or tan circular insignia around the fuselage, but we could not make it out."

"I could tell they were MIGs, but what type of MIGs I cannot say."

The ship was flying a 4x6 foot American flag at the time, he said.

"The shooting was deliberate," said Jote Teitelbaum, agent for the line owning the 400-foot Floridian.

"This ship was a scapegoat to counteract Alpha 66."

Came Out Of Anti
Alpha 66 is an anti Castro group which has been making hit-run commando raids on Cuban ports—attacks which some U.S. officials fear may fire up another U.S.-Soviet crisis.

The Floridian docked here at 7:05 a.m. Before it reached the dock, four Navy intelligence officers went aboard to interview Olson and the 24 Americans in the crew.

"The jets came out of the sun, made seven passes and fired four bursts," said the cook of the Floridian, who declined to give his name.

"There were tracers all over the place and over the bow of the ship."

The Floridian left San Juan, at 6 p.m. Tuesday with a refrigerated cargo. Immediately after she docked, huge gates opened in the stern and the job of unloading refrigerated cargo began.

Teitelbaum said the vessel would leave here at 6 p.m. on the return to San Juan.

Youth, 19, Hunted In Bludgeoning Of White Lake Pair

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP (AP) — A murder charge and a federal fugitive warrant were issued Thursday against a 19-year-old former circus roustabout accused of bludgeoning two teenagers.

Sought is Carl Case of Green Oak Township, a friend of the pair he is accused of beating with a tire iron.

Leonard C. Reed, 16, of White Lake Township died Wednesday several hours after he was attacked on a lonely road. His sister, Naomi Jean, 14, has not regained consciousness since the attack.

Police said the Reed children were returning home from a visit at a friend's home when they stopped their car to talk with someone. They were found by passersby some time later and were rushed to a hospital.

Doctors said that if the girl lives she probably will be blind. Oakland County Prosecutor Jerome Berry Jr. has obtained a murder warrant against Case.

U.S. District Court Judge Thaddeus Machrowicz then signed the federal fugitive warrant.

FBI agents said they were checking out a report that Case used to work for a circus and might be headed for its winter quarters in Sarasota.

Police did not spell out their case against Case but said only that "numerous interviews with various people led them to believe Case was involved."

The two Reed children and Case visited at the same home Tuesday night. Police said there was no indication of any trouble among the three at that time. It was less than an hour later that the attack occurred.

Congress Told U.S.-Russia Near Nuclear Standoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told Congress the United States is entering an era of a nuclear standoff with the Soviet Union—a time when neither can launch a nuclear attack without getting one in return.

But despite that prospect, McNamara declared this country intends to win the cold war and "I believe in a reasonable sense of the word we are winning."

"Our objective," he said, "is defeat of the Communists. I do not believe we can achieve that victory by engaging in a strategic nuclear war. I think that kind of stalemate will become increasingly more controlling with the passage of time."

McNamara dealt with this "mutual deterrence" during six days of closed-door hearings which began Feb. 6 before a House Defense Appropriations subcommittee that questioned him about the Pentagon's budget.

Testimony Censored
A censored transcript of his testimony was made public today.

"In no sense of the word is there Soviet nuclear superiority today," he asserted, "nor is there nuclear parity measured in terms of numbers of weapons."

Regardless of his theory of mutual deterrence, McNamara preferred not to describe it as a stalemate.

"Stalemate implies lack of action," he said.

Trooper Cited For His Bravery

EAST LANSING (AP) — State Police Trooper John O'Brien of the St. Clair Post has been cited for bravery for his attempt to rescue two children from a station wagon that plunged into the St. Clair River, Commissioner Joseph Childs reports.

O'Brien shed his uniform in sub-zero weather in December to dive into the river. He was able to locate the station wagon but was unable to get the children out.

Five other officers received honorable mention for outstanding acts of duty.

Cpl. Thaddeus Niewiada of Cadillac was cited for his mouth-to-mouth breathing revival of a Cadillac ski resort employee whose breathing stopped while he was being taken to a hospital.

Troopers William Anderson and Jackie Shell of Brighton were cited for tracking a Brighton Youth Camp escapee eight miles through woods and swamps in deep snow and recapturing the fugitive.

Trooper Melvin Koenes of Newaygo was cited for obtaining the arrest and confession of two men to solve a series of Muskegon-area burglaries.

Trooper Charles Kenney of L'Anse was cited for solving several check frauds in the Houghton area.

tion and I visualize our military program leading to quite the contrary," he said. "I visualize it leading to action in the foreign policy field."

The American aim is to "advance the cause of freedom throughout the world," he said, "and to do this in a way that protects our own national security, which means we are not prepared to destroy our nation in the process of attempting to advance freedom elsewhere in the world."

New Missile Developed
The Air Force is at work on a project to develop a mobile, accurate, light-weight missile that could be carried on trucks, which is the way the Soviet missiles were transported, he said.

The defense secretary said there is no evidence "that the Soviet Union is concerned at the present time with developing in Cuba a capability to strike the United States, no evidence whatsoever."

Other highlights:
Spending: Noting that some congressmen have argued that the proposed $53.7-billion defense budget could be cut by as much as $3-billion, McNamara invited the legislators to show where it could be reduced by such a sum "without so reducing our force levels as to endanger our nation. I know of no such areas."

U.S. Strength: American forces for strategic or limited war have been increased across the board, he said. The five-year defense plan he previously outlined to Congress "will more than triple the number of nuclear weapons in our alert forces—the weapons that we could bring to bear against an attacker, literally, within a matter of minutes."

Manpower: "It is inconceivable to me," he said, "that our armed forces would be reduced substantially in the near future."

Disarmament: He said he doesn't expect any substantial progress toward disarmament until "certain of the major issues" between the United States and the Communist bloc are resolved.

Sightless Pianist Alec Templeton Dies Of Cancer

GREENWICH, Conn. — Alec Templeton, 52, blind pianist and satirist, died in his home here Thursday. He had suffered from cancer for several months. Templeton, born in Cardiff, Wales came to the United States in 1935.

He appeared as a guest on a number of radio programs, and later starred in a show of his own. He became a United States citizen in 1941.

Templeton, blind from birth, could pick out tunes on a piano at the age of four. He was skilled at improvisation.

Templeton was a featured artist during the early Escanaba Community Concert seasons. His wife Juliette, who survives, served as his "eyes" at performances.

Centennial Stamps Will Reward Buyers Next Week

Centennial stamps for Escanaba merchants to give to their customers are available at Centennial headquarters in the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce building now and distribution has started.

The stamp plan will be in effect in the first stores next week.

Sponsored by the Centennial Corp. and the Retail Division of the Chamber, it is a program by which the merchants are helping to pay the $40,000 cost of staging the Centennial celebration June 30-July 6.

The merchants buy the stamps from the Centennial Corp. and distribute them to purchasers of goods in their stores, service stations and other establishments, in the proportions of purchase. Stamps will be given in dollar unit purchases. For instance, one stamp will be given for a $1 purchase, 2 stamps for purchases of $2 or more up to $3, etc. No single purchase entitles the purchaser to more than $500 worth of stamps, regardless of the item value.

Goods will cost no more because they carry a premium of stamps—they're a gift from the merchant backing the Centennial; his contribution to the civic program.

June 29 is the last day of stamp distribution.

Twenty-five stamps can be redeemed for a registration certificate which enters the holder in the official Centennial host or hostess contest for its honors and awards. The stamps have no sticker and no books will be provided. Collectors are not limited to the number of certificates they can acquire for 25 stamps each.

Mrs. John Stoll is agent for the Centennial Corp. in management of the stamp plan at the Chamber office.

Stores participating in the Centennial stamp plan can be identified by display of a Centennial stamp plan poster in their windows. Full rules of the contest are available at participating stores and 10,000 stickers will be distributed by supermarkets.

Harold Cloutier, Centennial director, said the Centennial stamp plan does not replace any merchant's own stamp plan, but only augments it; that the Centennial stamps will be available only 3 months and that only purchases in that period will count in the host contest.

Delta's Births, Deaths Increase

The total number of births and deaths recorded in Delta County for the year 1962 shows an increase over that of 1961, according to figures released today by William E. Butler, county clerk.

The records reveal that there were 866 babies born during 1962, compared with 822 for the previous year, an increase of 44 babies. Of the total, 857 were recorded as being born in Escanaba and nine in rural areas.

Butler pointed out that it was difficult to get an exact figure on the number of babies born in Escanaba, Gladstone or the rural areas because there is only the one hospital, St. Francis, and while an expectant mother may be from one of these areas the birthplace is still recorded as Escanaba.

By comparison the number of deaths increased only 12 over the previous year. In 1962 there were 328 deaths recorded and in 1961 only 328.

Of the total 243 persons who died in Escanaba, 22 in Gladstone and 75 in the county areas during 1962. In 1961 the deaths recorded in Escanaba totaled 244, in Gladstone 19 and 65 in the rural areas.

According to the Michigan Department of Health's Statistical Methods Section, there were 182,475 resident births in the state last year, nearly 10,000 fewer than the year before, as the birth rate dropped for the fifth straight year.

The records also show that 7,998 of the babies born last year were illegitimate, a rate of 43.8 per 1,000 live births. Although this is less than the national illegitimacy rate it is the highest ever recorded in Michigan.

The number of babies born is the lowest since 1952, when 177,835 were born. Births climbed steadily from there, reaching a peak of 208,488 in 1957 before declining.

Whether births continue to go down or remain on a plateau in the next few years is anybody's guess, but one thing is certain—they are bound to go up soon. A glance at past birth statistics tells why.

The majority of parents of babies born during the last few years were born during the 1930's and early 1940's, when births averaged about 90,000 a year. Within the next five years most of the babies born from 1945-49—when births averaged 150,000 per year—will be getting married and having babies of their own.

Labor Urges A "NO" Vote On Con-Con!

ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS:

1. Would the proposed Constitution preserve the principle that all men are created equal?

ANSWER: NO. While the first two sections proclaim the principle more strongly than ever, its practical application is destroyed by the Senate apportionment "principle" that square miles are to be weighed on the scales of justice along with people.

2. Does the "search and seizure" provision circumvent a U.S. Supreme Court decision?

ANSWER: YES. In the 1961 case of Mapp v. Ohio, the Court said, "We hold that all evidence obtained by searches and seizure in violation of the Constitution is, by that same authority, inadmissible in a state court." This decision requires all states to adopt the Federal rule which excludes all evidence illegally seized, but Con-Con refused to do so.

Blue Cross Rate Boost Granted

LANSING (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn has announced that Blue Cross will be granted a 23.4 per cent rate increase if it lives up to standards set by the commission.

Colburn gave his ultimatum following months of wrangling after the Michigan Hospital Service (Blue Cross) had asked for a 29.3 per cent increase.

"This gives them every penny they need to keep going for another 18 months," Colburn said. "We are also spelling out the safeguards they must meet to make them responsible to the public."

Members of the Blue Cross board decided at a meeting ending early Friday that many of the commissioner's proposals are adopted and operating in most Blue Cross hospitals.

Management was directed to study ways to implement some and report back at a special meeting of the board on April 11.

Blue Shield Next

Colburn said he expected to make a decision some time early next week on the request for Blue Shield (pre-paid medical care) for a 23.9 per cent rate increase.

Blue Shield had refused to accept conditions laid down by Colburn for their rate increase grant.

The medical care group, meeting Wednesday night, charged the commissioner was going beyond his authority.

Frank Starr, deputy executive director of Blue Shield, said Colburn's demands were "unwarranted intrusion by government in the internal affairs of a private corporation."

Blue Cross had asked for a rate hike of 29.6 per cent on all group, comprehensive, group economy, group conversion, non - group and senior contracts. It also asked a 10 per cent rate increase on the group remittance $50 deductible contract.

Because of immediate need, Colburn said, he was authorizing an increase of 23.4 per cent on all plans other than the group remittance $50 deductible contract, which was allowed an increase of eight per cent.

About 3.5 million people in Michigan are covered under both the Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans.

Rates Laid Down

Said Colburn in approving the rate increase for Blue Cross: "In no event, however, shall this increase become effective unless the board of trustees notifies the Michigan Department of Insurance that it has adopted the directives set forth herein."

The actions should be taken, Colburn said "for the purpose of eliminating or reducing as far as possible all unnecessary and exorbitant payments to contracting hospitals."

The hospitals should be required to, he said:

—Adopt effective systems of cost accounting, furnish annual statements to the commission, have their books audited by established firms and have annual operating budgets.

—Develop a new payment formula designed to pay only for services used by subscribers and covered by contracts.

—Develop a fair and reasonable formula for payment for outpatient services.

—Open non-group and senior citizen enrollment not later than August 1, 1963.

—Establish committees to make recommendations in such areas as subscriber rates and contracts, especially clarifying and simplifying the language.

If they comply with these terms, Colburn said, the increase would take effect April 15.

A team of three representatives of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan which spoke at the State Office Building Thursday night on the new constitution, is completing a tour of the state at Munising on Saturday. From left, Robert Pickup, executive director; Charles Sturtz, research associate, and Tilden Mason, director of public information of the Council. (Daily Press Photo)

Money Reason On Constitution Is Heard Frequently

"One of the reasons most often advanced for adopting the new constitution — apart from a strong feeling on some issues involved — is that we have spent $2 million on the new constitution so we ought to make some use of it."

The speaker was Robert Pickup, executive director of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, which sent out two teams of speakers to explain the new constitution to voters throughout the state. Michigan votes on the new constitution on April 1.

Pickup and his colleagues, Tilden Mason and Charles Sturtz of the Citizens Research Council addressed a public meeting on the Constitution at the State Office Building Thursday night. They close their state tour Saturday at Munising.

"We have heard very often, as a general reason for voting for the new constitution," said Pickup, "that a lot of money was spent on the constitutional convention and that it's product should not be thrown away. This reaction has been particularly noticeable in the Upper Peninsula."

"In the Lower Peninsula we heard often that it must be a better constitution than the one we have now, because people spent 7 months studying the old one and improved upon it."

Extraneous Reaction

"Many of the people who talk with us," said Mason, "are for or against the new constitution on grounds that have nothing to do with the document. They are for or against things that the legislature could remedy tomorrow."

"The classic approach from the negative side to anything as complex as a state constitution is to pick some little thing and blow it up out of proportion to its importance, or misrepresent it," said Pickup.

"We wonder whether Michigan people have been doing their homework on the constitution when we hear some of the questions asked about it."

"We are one of the few peoples in the world who have the right to govern themselves and write their own basic law. Our ancestors died for the right to do this. I don't know if people today want this right or not. They take it for granted. I suppose, but it's a pretty dangerous thing in the modern world to take something like this for granted."

Apportionment Tops

The speakers said that apportionment of the Legislature is the most controversial issue in the seminars. Downstate the apportionment of the senate 20 per cent on area (80 per cent on population) to give more representation to the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula than a straight population basis would give, is criticized by Democrats. In the Upper Peninsula the benefit from this formula is not much remarked, nor the loss of this representation (from 3 senators to 1) as proposed by the Democrats much criticized.

"We usually hear from somebody who objects to something that's the nature of the thing, and ing about 2 per cent of the electorate on these meetings. I think this is pretty good.

Bit By Bit

"This is like any other test; if you take a bit of the constitution at a time you'll come out all right. The mass media have been explaining the constitution for months and maybe people have a better understanding of it than we think. Some meetings don't ask many questions. There are more women than men at afternoon meetings, but in the evening meetings the men have a slight edge."

The Citizens Research Council was of great aid to the Constitutional Convention in the supply of literature and other aids on constitutional law and has prepared "A Digest of the Proposed Constitution" and other reports on the work of the convention to inform the public on the new document.

The CRC is a private, non-profit organization formed in 1916 and is supported by voluntary subscriptions from business, industry, commercial and financial institutions, private individuals and foundations. It conducts continuing research into public affairs and governmental problems at the state and local level with a full time, professional staff and its research results are available to all. It does not take a stand on ballot issues.

College Entry Process Starts

Work towards opening of Bay De Noc Community College will get into high gear starting Monday. Richard Rinehart, administrator of the college will arrive Sunday to assume full time duties.

One of the first goals will be to publish a catalog of courses to be offered at the college at its opening next fall. The catalog will also cover general information on admissions, tuition and fees, academic regulations and student services. Another part of the catalog will cover Technical-Vocational programs. These catalogs will be available to all interested students and adults.

High school superintendents and principals will have Rinehart available to speak to their classes after April 1. This will give the students a good understanding of what they can expect when enrolling in the community college, says Joseph L. Heirman, president of the board of trustees.

The trustees will meet Monday night at the Delta County Building. Members are James Dotsch, Robert Groos, Clayton Ford, Heirman, Dr. Albert Jenke, Charles Follo, Arthur Slaughter and Hagle Quarnstrom.

Extend Summer Junior-Senior School Program

MARQUETTE — Marquette's board of education gave hearty approval to continuance of the junior-senior high school program of academic courses during the summer.

The academic summer school program had already been provided for in this year's budget.

Summer classes were started last year to alleviate some of the disadvantages of the split session in the junior and senior high schools.

Began primarily to help the gifted and slow students, summer classes are available to all students, so that they can take important subjects which can't be fit in during the split session's four and a half hour school day.

A real interest in the summer courses was shown by students last year and attendance was surprisingly good for summer vacation. High School Principal Paul M. Kotila told the board. He noted that students seem even more interested this year.

Cub Scouts Meet At Bark River

BARK RIVER — Twenty-six Cub Scouts attended the Bark River Cub Scout Pack 445 meeting at the elementary school Monday evening with Cub Master Philip Norman presiding. He welcomed the Cub Scout leaders and parents. The Cubs repeated the Cub Scout promise and gave the pledge to the flag. Cub committee members, Hector Larson, Arthur Fournier, Bernard Kleiman and Robert Bell and institutional representative, James Anderson and assistant Cubmaster Edward LeBeau were introduced by Cubmaster Norman.

The importance of parent participation was stressed for a healthy pack and the March theme "Around the USA" was explained. Each den then presented several interesting and amusing skits for the entertainment of their parents and parents were invited to look over the display of handicraft articles the Cubs had made at Den meetings. Cub Scout pack meetings will be held every fourth Monday of the month. At the conclusion of the meeting and program lunch was furnished by wives of Cubmasters and committeemen.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Nelson were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Nelsen in Spalding in observance of William Nelsen's birthday. Others present were the brothers, Holger, Hans and James and their wives, all of Powers-Spalding. Cards were enjoyed during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hurtbese visited in Milwaukee with the latter's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Kwarcianny.

Know Your Town:

Local Government Handbook Offered By Women Voters

What the League of Women Voters know about your town fills a book, the "Know Your Town," hand book of local government, now on sale at several locations in Escanaba at 40 cents per copy.

The book has 34 chapters, contains many charts and illustrations, and has more helpful hints and information on the subject of local governmental affairs than has ever before been presented in one volume.

Mrs. Arthur E. Crain, president of the Escanaba League of Women Voters, said local government officials cooperated in replying to the many requests for information; many League members contributed to the project; and that the book editor is Mrs. Russell Johnson, with Mrs. Albert Jenke co-editor. Charts were drawn by Mrs. Victor Powers assisted by Mrs. Russell Huhn.

Questions Answered

The books are now on sale at Gust Asp's, Mel & Elmer's market, the Gross Drug Store, Goodman's Rexall store and Ernie's Party Store. Proceeds from the sale of the book help defray the League's voter information programs and projects, of which the book itself is one.

Answers to many questions that are likely to plague the average citizen will be found in the book.

How to correctly address letters to the President of the United States, to the Vice President, U. S. Senator and other federal and state officials is told under the chapter on Lobbying by Letter. Suggested salutations and correct address are given.

"Be informed, make your vote count," suggests the League of Women Voters in presenting complete information about elections; Who can vote, how to register, absentee voting, and a schedule of elections.

Valuable Reference

There is a complete and accurate explanation of the Escanaba Area Public School District and how it functions as an arm of state government for the education of children. Charts and graphs explain sources of revenue to finance the schools and how the money is spent. The reader is also advised on where further information is available.

A brief history of Escanaba prefaces the work followed by an examination of the economic characteristics of the community. The social and recreational life of the community is reviewed.

The Escanaba city governmental structure, the picture of city finances and where the revenues come from and how funds are spent for what purposes, with a description of the various city departments and utilities is a part of the book. Planning and zoning and a map of the city are helpful to readers wanting to learn more about their local municipal government.

"Know Your Town," is a valuable reference work and it has been suggested as a gift from parents to students in college and universities.

TRUCK A SAFER COLOR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock's yellow truck for painting traffic lines on streets has been a favorite target for motorists for years. City officials finally tired of the frequent collisions and painted the truck a fluorescent tangerine color.

Motorists don't like it, said assistant traffic engineer Wayne Sherrell, but at least they don't hit it.

John Erickson Taken By Death

John Erickson, 80, of Stephenson Rte. 2, former long-time resident of Escanaba, died at 10:25 p. m., Thursday at St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital, Menominee, where he had been a patient one month.

Mr. Erickson was born in Sweden March 9, 1883, and came to the United States to settle in Escanaba when he was 17. He moved to Stephenson four years ago. He was employed by the Chicago & North Western tie plant during his active years. He was a member of North Star Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ida Ostron, Stephenson, a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Mildred) Gloudmen, Little Chute, Wis., a son, Kenneth, U. S. Air Force, based in Massachusetts, seven step-daughters and one step-son, three grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home after 4 p. m., Sunday. Complete services will be held at the funeral home Monday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Karl J. Hammar will officiate. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest Cemetery.

Superintendents Discuss Child Guidance Clinic

School superintendents of the Delta County area met Thursday at Rapid River to discuss common problems of the area. John A. Lemmer was a guest at the meeting.

Lemmer discussed the U. P. Child Guidance Clinic, which has a branch office in Escanaba, and its financing problems. He reported that at the present time there is a waiting list, but that in cases of emergency a child would be admitted immediately.

As the result of the discussion a committee was selected to study methods of strengthening the program and the possible revision of financing the local contributions to the branch at Escanaba.

The committee is composed of Superintendents Walter Bright, Escanaba; Wallace Cameron, Gladstone; Leo Brunelle, Flat Rock; and Walters Peters of Rapid River.

The next regular meeting of the superintendents will be held on Thursday, April 25, at Nahma. It will be in conjunction with the Central League basketball banquet to be held at Nahma.

Briefly Told

Construction of a school building for mentally retarded children of the community by the Escanaba Project Pride committee was discussed at a meeting held Thursday noon at Marco's, with Chairman Don Brandt presiding. It is anticipated that building will be started this season.

The ninth annual Northern Michigan Science Fair will open at Northern Michigan University, Marquette Saturday with at least 400 projects prepared by young scientists from Upper Peninsula schools. The fair will also include 30 college-level exhibits.

All men of St. Anne's Parish are reminded that there will be the final workbee Saturday, beginning at 12:00 noon in the Parish Hall, in preparation for the 6th annual spaghetti and meatball dinner, Sunday, March 31.

Miss Jane Tippet (Lee's Studio)

Jane Tippet New Queen Contestant

Jane Tippet, a junior at the Escanaba Area Senior High School, has been accepted and approved as a candidate in the Queen's Contest by the Escanaba Centennial Queen's Contest Committee. She is the 13th contestant to enter.

Miss Tippet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tippet, 121 N. 19th St. She has taken violin lessons for seven years and has played with the Escanaba Senior High School orchestra. She enjoys listening to good music and has a record collection. Journalism is another of her interests and she occasionally writes for the school paper.

The new entrant enjoys playing tennis, swimming, skating and dancing. She is active in the Senior Choir and Youth Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church. After high school, Jane plans to attend college and prepare for a career in education.

A resident of Escanaba for the past five years, 16-year-old Miss Tippet is five feet, five inches tall with black hair and brown eyes.

Brule River Trout Season Is Opening

MADISON, Wis.—Tougher than usual conditions will face trout fishermen when the early season opens on the Brule river and 14 other Lake Superior streams Saturday, the Conservation Department said today.

With only a day to go, some of the 20-mile stretch of the Brule open to angling is still covered with ice. Snow in the area is about a foot deep.

Despite conditions, an enthusiastic crowd is expected. Last year some 1,500 trout fishermen braved shelf ice, snow, high water, and cold for the traditional opening. They were rewarded with 143 fish, most of them big lake run browns and rainbows.

Plastic Containers Illegal For Storing Flammable Liquids

Portable plastic flammable liquid containers have been appearing on the market in all parts of Michigan recently.

The State of Michigan and Local Flammable Liquids Regulations requires that "Containers for the storage of flammable liquids having an individual capacity of 60 gallons or less shall be of substantial, closed, metal construction," said Fire Chief Nels Bergeon.

Plastic flammable liquid containers are not recommended because of the failure of such material under fire conditions and when subjected to low temperatures. It is advisable to use closed metal flammable liquid containers until such time as the satisfactory performance of plastic containers under fire or low temperature conditions is established, he said.

Containers filled or sold containing gasoline, benzene or naphtha must be painted bright red and shall be lettered or labeled with the word "Gasoline", "Benzene", or "Naphtha".

HOW GOOD IS PLYMOUTH'S NEW WARRANTY?

Facts about our 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty*

DOES IT INCLUDE THE COST OF LABOR?

Yes. There is absolutely no charge for labor and parts. For the entire life of the warranty, should any defect in material or workmanship occur in the parts covered by the warranty, it will not cost you one cent to have it corrected.

DOES IT COVER EXPENSIVE PARTS?

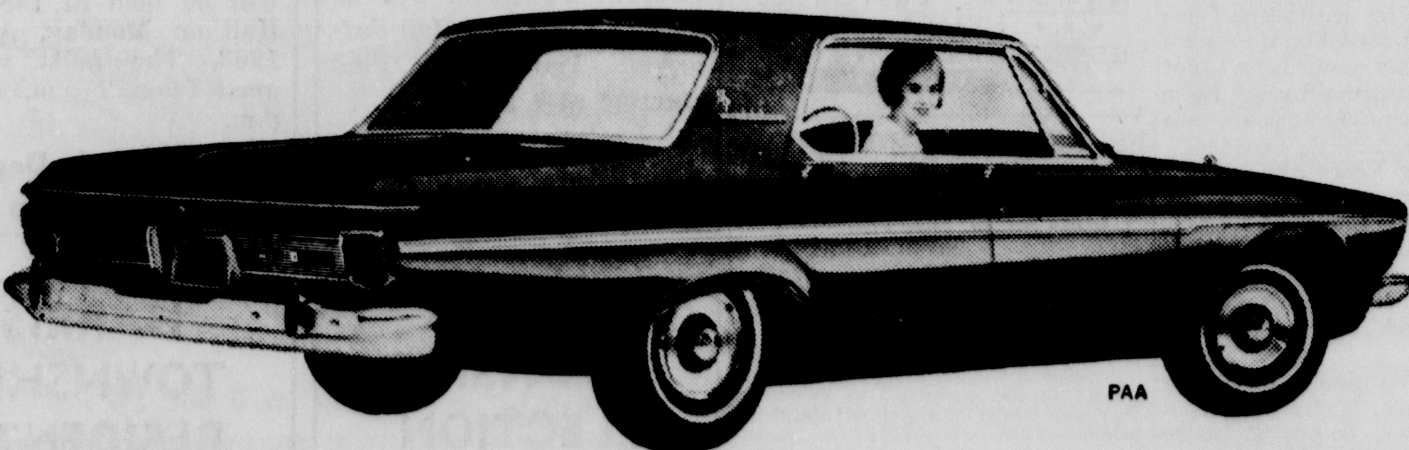

Absolutely! It covers the major power train components—the engine block and its internal parts, the automatic transmission and its internal parts, the rear axle—parts that would most certainly cost you plenty to have replaced or repaired.

IS IT TRANSFERABLE WHEN YOU SELL THE CAR?

Yes. Just as long as the car has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Plymouth-Valiant Certified Car Care schedules, the warranty can be passed on to the new owner. Think what that will mean to the resale value of your car!

MUST YOU SPEND MORE FOR MAINTENANCE?

No. All that is required is the normal care that most car owners would usually give their car. Only one chassis lubrication is required for the entire life of the warranty. Other maintenance consists of inspections at reasonable intervals.

*Your Authorized Plymouth-Valiant Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Plymouth-Valiant Certified Car Care schedules.

PLYMOUTH SALES ARE UP—WE'RE TAKING MORE CARS IN TRADE!

Right now we have the biggest selection of used cars that we've had in ages. Most makes and models. So, if you want a top-quality used car, we're the people to see.

Cleo Is Expensive

It is to be hoped that the social historians won't be so busy with the Kennedys of our time that they will fail to note our treatment of Cleopatra.

In real life Cleopatra was the name of several queens of Egypt. The one best remembered is Cleopatra VII, the last of the Ptolemies, who died in 30 B.C. She was famed for her charm and was so intelligent and brilliantly witty that she influenced the policies of the greatest men of her time.

She has been subject of plays, operas, novels, histories and several movies. Walter Wanger started to make another movie on the Cleopatra theme with Joan Collins and Stephen Boyd as the stars. It was to be a rather cheap little film costing only $2 million.

But now, four years later, it will emerge in June with only the title unchanged. Its stars are now Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, the director and script writer have changed, the locale of the production has changed and the cost has gone from $2 million to $40 million. It is the most expensive motion picture ever made and only time will tell whether it is a good one because no one has seen it yet.

But good or bad it is dinger of a comment upon American mores, economics and theatrics. The film cost at least $20 million more than it should have, according to Spyros Skouras, board chairman of Twentieth Century-Fox, as quoted by Newsweek. The public seems to think that Liz Taylor's antics and illness ran the cost into the stratosphere, and she was expensive, but just incidental in a general effort of go for bust.

Fox decided to shoot the picture in Hollywood, then to shoot the interiors in London and the exteriors in Rome. Then they decided to do the whole film in London. Under Miss Taylor's contract the picture had to be shot in Europe so her Swiss corporation could get certain tax benefits.

Because of the Eady Plan of English subsidy payments and tax benefits, the producers had to use 85 per cent British technicians even after they finally decided to shoot the picture in Italy. Fox built more than 8 acres of ancient Egypt in Buckinghamshire but the weather was foul, Miss Taylor became ill, the insurance company panicked and during the wait some shooting was attempted. It was so cold that whenever the "Egyptians" talked the vapor from their breath was registered clearly on the film.

With $7 million and 16 months spent, Director Rouben Mamoulian quit. Skouras got Joe Mankiewicz to take over. To do it he bought Figaro, a company owned by Mankiewicz and NBC, for $3 million. Mankiewicz recommended starting over again, threw out the script and ordered a new boy. He got one he liked on the second try, Miss Taylor got a new contract for more money with no obligation to shoot in Europe but Mankiewicz wanted Italy and Egypt. It would be more authentic and cheaper. But it wasn't.

"We made an American picture in Italy," mourned Skouras. "Ninety technicians we sent by jet, with hotel accommodations and living expenses for all of them." The bottled water bill for the technicians was $80,000.

Mankiewicz, a creative whiz but no financial genius, was only one jump ahead of shooting in preparation of the script. None of the savings that motion picture planning can effect were available.

After the picture had been finished it was given another helping with expenditure of $2 million more in Spain to add some battle scenes. This layout sent the total cost to $38 million, with $7,500 a day bank interest on the loan. The picture will have to take in more than $62 million before it breaks even and Miss Taylor will get 10 per cent off the top plus royalties on the photo process her late husband, Mike Todd, owned.

But Cleopatra is making money already, with $15 million paid in advance by theater owners against the 70 per cent that Fox will take from their receipts when they play the picture. The theater owners expect the public to home in like swallows to see Cleopatra and the attraction has nothing to do with the Siren of the Nile. The bankers wouldn't feel so optimistic about their loan were it not for the $60 million of adverse publicity that Liz Taylor got with her hand holding with Richard Burton in Italy during the making of the film.

There has never been anything in moviedom like Cleopatra. It will stimulate a great gable and even the libraries will benefit by calls for books on Cleopatra. The curious will read that it's doubtful that the story that Cleopatra died of an asp bite is true. The bite of an asp isn't usually fatal. Neither is bad publicity, unfortunately.

Morality's Code

Nobody really questions that a loss of freedom anywhere, however small, diminishes freedom everywhere.

Yet not much is said about the idea that the same thought should apply in the realm of individual, national and world morality.

At none of these levels is observance of the moral code ever even remotely close to perfect, and no practical person expects that.

But it is always fair to demand that the code be constantly reasserted, and that departures from such principles be noted and protested.

Where, then, are the indignant ones today? When New York's Rep. Adam Clayton Powell sought recently to answer charges that he had abused congressional privilege in a variety of ways, his defense was simply that he was only one of many who do the same things.

Undoubtedly there are some who think such an answer is sensible. But is that the kind of reply which ought to satisfy a nation concerned for its moral character? If not, where is the indignation?

The logic of Powell's argument is that one transgression justifies another. Carried to its limits, that suggests that anything goes so long as somebody else is doing it.

The end of such thinking is destruction of the moral code. An individual or a society which seeks to rationalize immorality has no morality.

"Just Remember, I'm The Longhair Around Here"

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Defense Secretary Robert Strange McNamara today occupies one of the strangest positions in the capital.

A Republican—who was for Kennedy in 1960—he is regarded by many administration leaders as the ablest man in the cabinet, enjoying the President's complete confidence.

Nevertheless, he has been mentioned as a dark horse possibility for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964 or '68.

By other Republicans and some Democrats he is regarded as a civilian chief of staff, a man on horseback, a ruthless administrator, a spendthrift with a budget that is far too big, a potential dictator, a man to be watched and feared.

To other Democrats, McNamara is simply doing a job that has needed to be done for a long time, cracking together the heads of admirals and generals to make them support real unification instead of fighting their old service rivalries.

No one man can be all these things at once, yet McNamara seems to be. That is the paradox of his position.

His hassle with Congress over award of the $6.5 billion TFX tactical fighter contract to General Dynamics, instead of to Boeing, is expected to simmer down after his testimony before Sen. John L. McClellan's Government Operations subcommittee.

But it could boil up into something hotter if the Congress should move to create a joint, bipartisan group to watchdog defense contracts.

McNamara takes full and sole responsibility for the decision to build only one fighter for both

Air Force and Navy use, instead of the two the services wanted. The justification is that this saves the government $1 billion.

While McNamara has raised defense expenditures from $41 billion in 1961 to an estimated $51 billion for 1964, the latter figure is a $16 billion cut from what the services wanted.

The secretary's goal, after modernizing conventional forces, is to level off the defense budget. He is said to consider this necessary in the face of demands for tax cuts.

Kennedy's budget message even plugged McNamara as an economist, pointing to his program for reducing logistic operation costs by $3 billion in five years.

This, however, isn't enough to offset the $3 billion defense budget increase during his first two years in Washington.

The real explanation given for McNamara's present predicament is that the job of being secretary of defense is far different from what it started out to be.

When the first secretary of defense, the late James V. Forrestal, fathered the National Security Act of 1947 which "unified" the armed services, the plan was to keep his operation small. He was to be a mere civilian overseer, referee and budget cutter.

The act gave him one undersecretary and only three assistant secretaries. His staff and office space were small. The real concern in unification was over creation of a Joint Chiefs of Staff with a single chairman who, it was feared, might become too powerful and a military despot.

The late Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson changed all that by installing a General Motors organization with over 20

"vice presidents" as assistant secretaries.

Then came the Defense Reorganization Act amendments of 1958, which gave the secretary of defense broad new powers.

But nobody ever used them all until McNamara came along. In the light of nuclear, missile and space developments, the evolution of his job is considered essential by the Pentagon bureaucracy. His office now has 1,800 employees.

The three service secretaries have been down-graded to such an extent that most people have to think twice to remember who they are—Vance of Army, Korth of Navy and Zuckert of Air Force.

There are now only seven assistant secretaries of defense, who are equally hard to name. And the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Maxwell Taylor, seems to offer no threat of military domination of the republic.

It's "Sec. Def." who raises the suspicions now.

Ted Johnson, fishing enthusiast from Gladstone, had an unusual catch yesterday. Fishing had been poor. He toyed with the line and finally felt a tug. He was sure he had a 20 pounder on the line. He had to chop the hole bigger before he could bring the catch to the surface. It was a bait pill that some other fisherman had evidently lost while fishing near there.

PAUL ADAMS' POSITION

I would like to express my support for Mr. Paul Adams for justice of the Michigan Supreme Court as I feel that an injustice has been done Mr. Adams by the "Michigan Farm News," with a statewide circulation.

The fact that Mr. Adams disqualified himself from voting on the August Scholle reappointment petition in the State Supreme Court last July after he had made a previous ruling on the same petition as state attorney general, leaves the question in my mind as to what other alternative he had? Would it be proper for a judge to pass a decision in a high court on the same suit he had made a decision on in a lower court of law? I believe any other state supreme court justice should have done the same under the same circumstances.

This has been used against Mr. Adams by the use of carefully worded articles and by the use of pictures of the candidates for the state supreme court.

Mr. Adams record as Michigan's attorney general is public knowledge and one that he can be proud of. I have personal knowledge of Mr. Adams efforts to serve justice and you need not be rich or have political pull to receive his help. If a decision affecting my friends or neighbors were to be made by the state supreme court, I could only hope that Paul Adams would be one of the justices that would make the fair and just decision.

RAILROAD "POVERTY"

For the past four years the management of the nation's railroads has been brainwashing the public on railroad poverty and the forced use of personnel the carriers call "featherbedders." During this time there has been little or no opposition offered to the general public in defense of these positions by the men who maintain them.

Mine is but a small voice, but if I can stir the anger in the men who are being victimized by the outrageous branding, "Featherbedder" our voices will unite to become loud enough to carry this fallacy to the people who will suffer most in the event railroad management gains the right to start their job slashing.

During the past week there were five incidents involving near catastrophes where the fireman saved countless lives. The carriers maintain that the position of the "featherbedding" fireman is no longer necessary. However, these incidents were only published locally and did not reach the major public.

In one incident the fireman took over the controls of a speeding passenger train after the engineer suffered a fatal stroke. In the words of a spokesman on the scene, no power on earth could have stopped that train if the fireman was not there.

In another near tragedy the fireman jumped from the cab and raced ahead of an ore train and

April 1 Election Issue:

Civil Service's Funds Protected

By League of Women Voters

Michigan's proposed new constitution to be voted Monday, April 1, protects civil service by continuing the requirement that 1 per cent of the classified service's payroll must be appropriated for the work of the civil service commission. In order to protect public funds, constitutional status is given to the current practice of returning unexpended balances to the state treasury. This must be done six months after the end of the fiscal year, annual financial reports must be made, and the department is subject to annual audit.

The new document also expands the anti-discrimination clause by stating that not only removals and demotions, but also appointments and promotions, shall not be made for "religious, racial, or partisan considerations."

One change is due to the fact that several times in the past across-the-board pay raises have been given in the middle of a fiscal year, forcing the governor and legislature to find large additional amounts of money after the budget and taxes were set, or forcing lay-offs in the departments affected. Although this has not happened with recent commissions, the convention felt this should be avoided. Therefore, the requirement was added that pay increases shall take effect only at the beginning of a fiscal year and shall be given to the governor who must make them part of his budget.

The governor may not reject proposed increases nor refuse to put them in his budget. However, the legislature may permit wage increases during the fiscal year. Further, the legislature, if it acts within 60 days, may reject or decrease pay raises scheduled by the civil service commission. Since this can be done only by a two-thirds vote of the members of each house, it would require bipartisan support and would be most unlikely to occur except in case of a financial emergency.

Legislative juggling of salaries of individual persons or classes is prevented by the provision that any reduction must apply uniformly to all classes affected and cannot change pay differentials between grades or classes. Also the legislature cannot reduce wages below those in effect at the time the increases are proposed.

Another new provision allows the voters of any unit of local government to set up or abolish a merit system. Employees of any city, village, township, county, school district, or authority may be included except for teachers under contract or tenure. It was

April Busy Month In Peninsula As Activities Renew

April brings start of a large number of conventions that will be conducted in the Upper Peninsula during the next four months, the Upper Michigan Tourist Association notes in its regular "Calendar of Events" service.

It's also the month for the start of festivals and expositions that dot the spring-summer calendar. And not the least of upcoming events is the opening of the trout fishing season on Saturday, April 27.

Here's the April-May calendar of events listed by chambers of commerce and area organizations with the Upper Michigan Tourist Association:

April—Smelt runs on streams emptying into Lakes Michigan and Superior (start of runs depending on conditions).

April 19-21—Northern Michigan Exposition, "Patterns for Progress," at Marquette.

April 19-20—U. P. high school forensics meet, Northern Michigan University, Marquette.

April 22—Opening of new Escanaba Area Public High School.

April 26-27—Michigan Bankers' Association convention, Marquette.

April 27-28—Home and Garden Show, Sault Ste. Marie, Armory.

April 27-28—Marquette Diocesan Council of Catholic Women's convention, Houghton.

April 27—Trout fishing season opens; extends through Sept. 8.

April 28-29—DeMolay convention, Marquette.

Week of April 29 — "One Hundred Years of Progress" Science Fair, Escanaba Area High School, part of Escanaba Centennial observance.

May 9—NMU Choir Concert and Northern Community Symphony, National Music Week, Marquette.

May 15—Opening of Delta County Historical Museum, Escanaba.

May 18—U. P. Junior High School Music Festival, Marquette.

May 19-25—Michigan Week.

May 21—Opening of walleye fishing season.

May 24-25—Sault Ste. Marie International Bridge dedication.

Neighbors Are Improving Woods

By KENNETH S. LOWE

Two neighbors on the south end of one of Marquette County's largest deer yards are doing a good job of woodland management and — at the same time — improving the woods.

They are Osmo Aalto and Reino Niemela, who live in Ewing Township about seven miles west of Rock. Aalto has 840 acres and Niemela 360 acres.

Their main operation at present is selling balsam and spruce pulpwood, cedar for fencing and balsam for Christmas trees. They also are starting timber stand improvement in their hardwoods to have good quality timber for the future.

On poorly drained organic soils Aalto and Niemela harvest swamp conifers by clear-cutting in narrow (about 60 feet wide) strips. On imperfectly drained mineral soils larger, merchantable trees only are cut selectively.

This type of operation provides saleable wood and helps prevent windrow damage to the remaining trees. At the same time, cedar tops are left on the ground to provide food for deer and snowshoe hares. Reproduction and shrubs coming up in the strips also provide browse. The swamp area is large enough to allow for continuous cutting cycles, thereby providing an annual income and continued browse for deer and rabbits.

"On one cut strip I had left about 600 cedar tops on the ground," Niemela said, "and during the very cold weather this winter it took the deer only two weeks to browse the tops clean." Until that time, Aalto and Niemela said, the deer were mostly in the highlands and browsed heavily on hardwood tops that were left from their timber stand improvement operations.

In some areas of the swamp where aspen, white birch and balsam of Gilead are competing with conifers, the aspen, birch and balsam are cut out in order to release the more desirable trees. Mostly the trees that are cut are sold for pulpwood. By selling to a few different companies that have need for varying types of trees, it has been possible for Aalto and Niemela to market most of the trees cut in their woods operations.

Niemela has thinned about 18 acres of hardwoods during the past two years. He has used some of the trees that were cut for firewood, but most were left on the ground. By removing unmerchantable trees from the immature woodland and removing trees of poor form and less desirable or inferior species, he has reduced the stand density and improved growth of preferred trees, and the hardwood tops left on the ground provide wildlife browse.

Both men have planted trees and plan to plant more. In order to preserve some small areas that presently contain some good wildlife shrubs, such as hazel, red osier, dogwood and raspberries, Aalto and Niemela will discourage tree growth in these places.

Both men became co-operators of the Marquette Soil Conservation District in October 1957 in order to receive assistance in making sound decisions in land use. Since then, with the assistance of Ted Piowar, Marquette, of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, they have developed complete soil and water conservation plans on their farms. The soils information and alternatives presented by Piowar to Aalto and Niemela helped them make sound decisions on land use and the kinds of conservation practices to apply. Clayton Schooley, Ishpeming, district forester for the conservation department, also assisted them by marking trees in the hardwood stands in connection with their woodland thinning.

Lower Peninsula Car Kill Of Deer Far Over U.P.'s

Motorists killed at least 4,146 deer on Michigan's highways in 1962 to set a new record high for the third year in a row, the Conservation Department reports. Department field personnel estimate the actual toll ran considerably higher than this because the figure represents reported highway kills only. Not included in these reports are whitetails which bounded away from the scene of their accidents only to die later from car injuries.

Last year's big jump in known deer losses, more than 700 above the 1961 level, is traced mainly to highway kills in the Lower Peninsula.

In the southern Lower Peninsula, where deer numbers have built up to nearly 40,000, cars and trucks claimed 1,643 whitetails, an all-time high for any part of the state. Since 1959, these losses have almost doubled in the region, increasing at an annual average of 23 per cent.

Some 1,537 deer were killed on highways in the northern Lower Peninsula last year, a 38 per cent rise from 1961 and a record for this region. Another 966 whitetails met death on Upper Peninsula highways, compared with 911 the year before.

Department officials estimate that damage to cars and other vehicles involved in reported deer kills totaled nearly $750,000.

Water Management Top Problem Of Farm Land Usage

EAST LANSING — Michigan will gain a million acres of highway, urban and built-up areas by 1975 and lose 680,000 acres of cropland, says Dr. Anne Garrison, editor, in Michigan State University's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Dr. Garrison said "It is a matter of immediate concern to all citizens that the 31.5 million acres of land remaining in agricultural use be effectively employed and zealously maintained."

"The most extensive problem in terms of farm use in Michigan is agricultural water management."

Of the 7.5 million problem acres devoted to cropland, over half are troubled with excess water, according to the inventories. Drought and stoniness affect another 3 million acres.

"The watershed portion of the inventories," says Dr. Garrison "points up the need for remedial action on 99 watershed areas draining 21 million acres of our state."

Milk Marketing Changes Posted

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has recommended changes in the Upper Peninsula Milk Marketing Order which would permit operation of the Michigan Milk Producers Association's new dairy industry in the U.P.

MMPA acquired several cheese plants and other dairy industry facilities in 1962 from local co-operative owners in the effort to save these markets for Upper Peninsula dairy farmers who sell them milk. The cooperative plants were operating marginally and facing failure and closing.

MMPA, which has been bar-commended would accomplish this.

The recommendations would permit diversion of producer milk between fluid plants and provide that a cooperative association could qualify as a milk handler under the order, and would designate as "associated producers" dairy farmers who deliver milk during three months of the July-November period, but whose milk is rejected in the December-June period.

This rejected milk would be included in each handler's uniform price computation at the Class 2 (butter) price. The associated producer would be paid for the rejected milk out of the handler's pool at the difference between the uniform and the Class 2 price.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association is satisfied with the decision. Exceptions must be filed within 10 days after publication of the March 15 decision in the Federal Register.

Japan Buys Milk

Imports of non-fat dry milk by Japan are expected to jump by 88 million pounds in 1963 over a year ago. Expansion of Japan's school lunch program is credited with the increase. Japan has a school lunch program patterned after the program in the United States. About $9.5 million has been budgeted by Japan for importing non-fat milk for school use. Most of it is expected to come from American farms.

Japan is America's No. 1 cash customer for agricultural products, with milk an important commodity.

Ann Landers

Calamity Jane Is Prone To Disaster

Dear Ann Landers: Today I'm wearing dark glasses to work for the second time in three months. Why? Because last night my husband opened the cupboard door and accidentally caught me right square in the eye.

No, he didn't hit me on purpose. He never does—or at least so he says. Since our marriage three years ago I've had four shiners, two loose teeth and numerous bruises. He's not mean, just careless.

The teeth loosening happened like this: He was helping me put away the canned goods. He then dropped a can of sauerkraut on my face. Another time we were doing Spring cleaning and the mop handle accidentally slipped out of his hand. I saw stars. Please tell me what I can do about this.

—LIVING DANGEROUSLY
Dear Living—or should I say, Dear Lucky You Are Living: Has it ever occurred to you that these calamities all seem to happen when your husband is helping you with the housework?

It may be that he subconsciously resents doing housework and these accidents are his way of getting even. If you need help, hire a woman on a part time basis. It's cheaper than store teeth.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 23 years old, not hard to look at and have never had any trouble attracting males.

About eight months ago, I broke up with a fellow I'd gone with for over a year. It was terribly hard on me because I was deeply in love with the guy.

Two months later one of his best friends asked me for a date.

I accepted and made it plain that I was through with love for a while and that we would be just pals.

He has kept his part of the bargain beautifully—in fact TOO beautifully. I wish now I hadn't said anything because I've fallen for him—and hard. But he shakes hands with me at the end of the evening—like in the receiving line at a church party. I honestly believe ours could be the longest kissless romance on record.

Another month of this brother-sister act and I'll crack up. Help! Please!—ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle: Since this young man seems to be an expert at following directions you'll have to let him know, subtly, of course, that the signals have been changed.

Tell him you've completely recovered from your heartache and that you want to give love another chance.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 22-year-old son was married two months ago. He and his lovely wife (who is also 22) live about 600 miles from here. He brought

The bride twas terribly hurt and went to her room and cried. I say we were inconsiderate not to have anticipated this. My husband says she should have been adult about it. Our son snapped, "Why wasn't that reel thought out?" Frankly nobody thought about it.

How can I make amends? I want our daughter-in-law to like us. This is a frightful beginning. Please help. Mrs. W. L. of VERO BEACH

Dear W. L.: I see no reason for your daughter-in-law to have been angry. His reaction was

'The Doctors' On Daytime TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jock Gaynor, NBC's new candidate for movie idol, is a tall, slim, dark-haired young actor who starting Monday will be playing "an intense, dedicated young surgeon about 30 years old."

If this sounds like a character out of a night-time television program on a rival network, the resemblance is not entirely accidental. The epidemic of "medical anthologies" as these hospital-based programs are called, is now spreading into the daytime schedules. Gaynor's "The Doctors" is just one of two starting next week.

Everybody concerned insists "The Doctors" is not a "soap opera," in the traditional sense. That is mainly because each half-hour show will be a complete story—and does not have organ music.

It is part of a radical dramatic development. The villain in these days of "Ben Casey," "Dr. Kildare," "11th Hour" and "The Nurses" is more likely to be a dangerous germ, an unfortunate accident, a malfunctioning organ or a diseased mind than a human enemy.

"The Doctors" carefully has covered all explored bases; Gaynor will be the surgeon; Richard Roat will be a specialist in internal medicine, and instead of a nurse there will be a pretty pediatric specialist. Instead of a wise psychiatrist, there will be the hospital chaplain.

Gaynor, who says most of his previous television and motion picture experience has been devoted to playing "bad Indians and good white men in Westerns, is now taking surgery lessons.

His first "case," on Monday, will be a little girl with a hernia. And from there the show will move into all areas of physical and emotional distress on a one-a-day basis.

The annual Menominee County bus driver training program will be held at the following high schools: April 8 at Menominee, April 9 at Stephenson, and April 10 at Powers-Spalding. Sunday Closing Law In Effect

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley Wednesday issued notice that the controversial Sunday closing law is now in effect. He noted that enforcement of the law has been temporarily enjoined in 13 lower peninsula counties by the Wayne County Circuit Court.

"As to other counties in the state, I have advised State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs the law will be in effect unless the counties have exempted themselves by action of the board of supervisors," Kelley said.

"I have also advised the commissioner I anticipate there may be some misunderstanding concerning the interpretation and applicability of the law, and therefore some leniency in the enforcement of the statute may be indicated until there is a thorough understanding of the new law."

Ottawa County supervisors, meeting Wednesday in Grand Haven, fell two votes short of the two-thirds majority required to exempt the county. The vote was 20 to 11.

Picture Visit To Prison Will Feature Service

A picture-visit to Marquette State Prison will be presented at First Methodist Church Sunday evening by the Rev. E. W. LeVine, the prison's Protestant chaplain since 1957. The Lenten service begins at 6:30, following a Family Night dinner at 5:30, at which members of Mary Circle will be hostesses.

The Rev. J. Bruce Brown will conduct the worship hour, and the men's chorus will sing the spiritual, "Ain't-a-That Good News."

Chaplain LeVine is a native of Cedar Falls, Ia. He earned his bachelor's degree at Iowa State Teachers College and the bachelor's of divinity degree at Trinity Seminary, Blair, Neb. He served three years in the armed services as an instructor on 40 mm guns and later as an assistant in the Chaplain's Corps and was a parish pastor for six years before taking his present post at Marquette.

About 300 men at the prison are engaged in "intensive Bible study," according to Mr. LeVine, who adds, "Bring the children, the entire family," for this picture-tour.

A cordial invitation is extended to the community to attend the Lenten program.

Salvation Army Young People To Attend Councils

Delegates of the Salvation Army Young People, with Captain Orville Butts, left today for Gary, Ind., to attend the Young Peoples Councils which will be in session Saturday and Sunday.

In the group are Shirley Smith, Sharon Lindstrom, Barbara Broman, Kathy Sullivan, Bonnie Butts, Bob Brault, Ray Hanson, John Collins, Ronald Lindstrom and LeRoy Butts.

Theme of the conference is "Dedicated Youth in a Divided World."

The young people will make Escanaba's Centennial plans known at the conferences. The posters which they took with them announce the Centennial dates and their opening song will include mention of the observance.

4-H Club Program At Stonington

The Stonington Rip and Stitch 4-H Club will hold its local achievement program at the Community Building Wednesday, April 3, at 7:30 p. m. The girls will model their dresses and will give a short program. Lunch will be served. Everyone is welcome to attend and see the work completed during the past season. Mrs. Roy Erickson is 4-H leader.

Jaycees Plan Queen Pageant

The Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce today announced that their 1963 Miss Delta County Pageant will be held on Saturday, May 18, in the William Bonifas Auditorium beginning at 8 p. m.

Bob Johnson is the chairman of the 1963 pageant. Theme of the gala affair will be "When You Wish Upon A Star." Johnson pointed out that the pageant is in no way connected with the Centennial Queen contest and that applicants may enter both if they so desire.

The 1962 Delta County Queen was Miss Sheri Haddock. Winner of the contest will compete in the Miss Michigan Pageant to be held in Muskegon in July. The contest is open to all Delta County girls.

Director of the pageant will be Gordon Flath, who also directed last year's festivities. Members of the committee will include: Ron Hunt, Arthur Arch, Lee Wiles, Pat Coyne, John Bloomstrom and Bob Long.

Rules governing contestants are: 1. Entrant must be single, never have been married, divorced or had a marriage annulled.

2. Must be a high school graduate by Labor Day in the year of competition.

3. Entrant must be not less than 18 years of age, nor more than 28 by Labor Day of this year.

4. Must be of good character, possess poise, personality, intelligence, charm and beauty of face and figure.

5. Must possess and display talent in a routine not to exceed three minutes. The talent may include singing, dancing, playing a musical instrument, dramatics, art display, dress designing, creative poetry, writing, etc., or she may present a three-minute talk on the profession she wishes to pursue.

6. The entrant must be a resident of the county six months prior to the contest. This rule is waived only for contestants whose residence is out of the city or county, but who are college or university students in the city or county where the Pageant is held.

7. The applicant may be either a professional or amateur. Entry forms will be printed in the Escanaba Daily Press soon.

County Board Meets April 9

Reorganization of the Schoolcraft Board of Supervisors is scheduled at a meeting at 10 a. m., April 9 in the courthouse. The reorganization follows the spring election April 1.

Another important matter on the agenda will be proposal, under the revised judicature act, for appointment of a Friend of the Court.

Reconsideration of the Sunday closing law, which took effect March 28 but under which the county is exempt under earlier board action, also is scheduled.

A 1964 budget report will be presented by the finance committee and the equalization report will be received.

The Road Commission annual reports, and reports of the airport and building and grounds committees will be received. Requests for two western burial allowances will be considered.

Recreation Bus Is Damaged

Walter C. Hider, 20, of Manistique was assessed fine of $25 and costs of $4.30 and sentenced to 10 days in jail when arraigned in Justice Court on a charge of malicious property destruction.

Hider admitted to State Police he smashed windows and mirrors on the city recreation bus while it was parked at the city shop. Damage has been estimated at $158.

State Police reported.

He told Justice Howard Magoon he had had too much to drink the night the offense occurred, March 7.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Gregor McGregor Jr., and family and Mrs. Pat Gilmore and family of Chicago arrived Wednesday for a visit with their father, Gregor McGregor, a patient at Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. William Henry of Iron Mountain arrived Monday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Ed Lewis and brother, Gregor McGregor and other relatives and friends.

4-H Achievement Show Starting

Russell Mawby, state 4-H Club leader, and Emil Fimbinger, U. P. youth specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, will be here for the Schoolcraft 4-H achievement show today and tomorrow in the new gym.

The open house, to which the public is invited, is scheduled from 3 to 10 p. m., today. Saturday a program will be offered beginning at 10 a. m., with 13 4-H demonstrations and 18 talent acts scheduled.

At 1:15 p. m., the annual dress revue will be held. Some talent numbers will be staged and presentation of awards is scheduled.

Easter Lily Campaign Set

Mrs. Dan Warshawsky and Mrs. Jimmie DuBois have been appointed to head the Easter Lily campaign April 12 for the Schoolcraft Chapter of Crippled Children and Adults.

To expand services to residents, the group increased the revolving loan fund for teeth repair and glasses. If the current drive is comparable to last year, the group is also pledged to buy more wheelchairs to lend for either a short-time or to those who need them permanently.

The chapter voted to support one child at Bay Cliff Health Camp. Schoolcraft has a quota of eight who may be sent to Bay Cliff, but the quota is usually not filled due to inadequate funds.

Mrs. Carl Olson was commended for 18 years service to crippled children and adults.

"Hazel" of the TV comedy series (Shirley Booth) is national chairman of the 1963 Easter Seal campaign.

FRENCHMAN'S BURGEOO

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Jaubert, a French member of Confederate Gen. John Hunt Morgan's cavalry, is credited with inventing burgoo—once a favorite food at Kentucky political rallies.

Jaubert, cook for Morgan's men, had to use blackbirds for food because provisions were scarce. He prepared a dish with the birds as the main ingredient.

Later, pork, beef and mutton were used in the dish other than blackbird.

Kremlin Denies Soviet Planes Flew Into Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has flatly denied a U.S. charge that Soviet planes flew 30 miles into Alaska March 15. Moscow says their aircraft were more than 200 miles away.

Washington authorities said the Soviet denial, received late Wednesday, probably will end the formal diplomatic exchange on the incident. But they predicted the United States will continue to remind the Soviet Union at appropriate times that air space intrusions will not be tolerated.

The U.S. government was sticking firmly to its version, contained in a March 16 protest note to Moscow, that two Soviet reconnaissance planes flew over the southwestern corner of Alaska for nearly a half hour.

The Kremlin responded with an equally emphatic denial in a brief note.

U.S. officials said the Soviet Union contended their planes flew no closer to the U.S. border than 350 kilometers (about 218 miles).

The State Department declined to make the note public. Officials said it was up to the Soviets to do that.

Moscow appeared to have no desire to make a big issue over the incident. U.S. informants said the note was very short and devoid of propaganda embellishments. The Communists often include in their diplomatic and public declarations.

U.S. Paid Russia 7.2 Million For Alaska In 1867

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-six years ago Saturday the United States paid Russia $7.2 million for Alaska—then Russian America.

A few years ago, just after Alaska became the 49th state, Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov said: "We'd give you $200 million for it—but I don't suppose you would sell. We have a proverb in Russia, if something has fallen off a cart, it is lost forever."

When Russia gave up Alaska in 1867 after holding it for 126 years, many Americans thought $7.2 million was far too much to pay for what they visualized as an ice-bound wasteland.

There were rumors that the Russian minister had bribed high officials to secure congressional approval of the deal.

In the mid-1850s, Russia's czarist government realized it couldn't defend Alaska if war came and the colony would fall eventually either to the United States or Great Britain, and Russia preferred having it belong to the United States.

Russia had looked upon Alaska as an investment rather than a colony. The Russian American Co.

held exclusive franchise to exploit its wealth.

Mismanagement had brought the company to the verge of bankruptcy when the czar refused to renew the franchise in 1862. The Russians felt they had drained the country of most of its resources.

First overtures for the sale of Alaska were made in 1859 during the administration of President Buchanan. This effort was swept aside by the outbreak of the Civil War.

In December 1866, Baron Edouard de Stoeckl, longtime ambassador to the United States, was on vacation in Russia when he was given orders to negotiate for the sale of Alaska.

Returning to Washington, he broached the subject to Secretary of State William H. Seward. Seward offered $5 million. Stoeckl demanded $10 million.

Soon they agreed on $7.2 million and on the evening of March 29, Stoeckl burst into Seward's home with the news that his government had agreed to treaty terms and they could prepare a final draft next day.

With Congress on the verge of adjournment, Seward insisted they go right to work that night. The treaty was signed at 4 a. m. March 30 and immediately sent to the Senate. It was ratified April 9.

Congress appropriated no money for payment before it adjourned, but Russian-U.S. relations were so cordial that Alaska was handed over anyway on Oct. 18.

Efforts to appropriate the money were stalled by the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson in early 1868. It took an unlikely coalition of Johnson supporters and the men who had just tried to remove the president from office to win 113-43 approval of the House by July 14, 1868.

Two Attorneys Fined $500 Each In Contempt Case

MARQUETTE—Two attorneys this week were ordered to pay fines of $500 each within 30 days on a contempt of court citation brought in Marquette by United States District Judge W. Wallace Kent of Kalamazoo.

The case was heard in Grand Rapids Monday after having first been scheduled for Marquette a week ago but then being rescheduled for Grand Rapids.

Judge Frank Battisti of Toledo, designated by the U. S. Sixth District Court of Appeals at Cincinnati to hear the case, ordered the fines.

Theodore Albert of Ironwood and Peter Bradt of Port Huron were cited for contempt Aug. 2, 1960, by Kent who was hearing a civil case in federal court in Marquette.

The lawyers represented Dr. Samuel G. Albert of Ironwood in his complaint of alleged conspiracy to deprive the doctor of his rights to practice medicine and surgery in an Ironwood hospital.

The attorneys filed affidavit to have Kent disqualify himself from hearing the civil case on grounds of personal bias.

A hearing was held on the motion and, while Kent read the motion, the attorneys for Albert left the court room despite the judge's instructions that the plaintiff should not be left without counsel.

Kent held the two in contempt.

Stambaugh Places $700,000 Bond Issue On Ballot

STAMBAUGH — The Stambaugh township board of education voted unanimously this week to ask voter approval for a $700,000 bond issue to finance construction and reconstruction of school buildings.

Vote on the proposal, prepared by the school board and a special citizens committee, will be on May 6. Eligible to vote will be registered property owners in Gaasra, Caspian, Stambaugh township and Stambaugh city, which make up the school district.

As envisioned, approval of the bond issue would mean:

- Demolition of the present Central building and construction of a new music and industrial arts building;
- Construction of an addition to the present elementary school at Stambaugh;
- Closing of the Caspian and Gaasra schools, with students to be transported to the new elementary wing at Stambaugh;
- Renovation of the high school to comply with orders of the state fire marshal and recommendations of the accreditation board of the University of Michigan.

Earlier this month, the board had indicated unanimous support of the Citizens Committee proposal, but no formal action had been taken until Tuesday, after legal matters had been completed.

Alger Slates Special Election On Millage Hike

MUNISING—The Alger County Board of Supervisors, at a special meeting set May 20 as the date for a special election at which increased millage will be sought to provide funds to match a government grant for a new Alger County jail.

At the election, voters will be asked to approve an increase of one mill for a five-year period to provide the $80,000 in matching funds. This would amount to $1 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation, as finally equalized, of all property in the county.

The $80,000 grant for a new Alger County jail was authorized by the Community Facilities Administration last week. The amount is half of the estimated cost of the new structure.

If the proposal is accepted by voters, work is scheduled to start in June and will provide 120 man-months of labor for the area.

The present jail, 60 years old, was condemned by the state jail inspector within the past year.

Harold Johnson, capable Escanaba High School head basketball coach, has been elected president of the Upper Peninsula Coaches Assn. Guss Lord, basketball coach and athletic director at Stephenson, was named vice president and Warren (Whitey) Wilson of Calumet secretary-treasurer.

The Upper Peninsula's first track meet is just around the corner. Northern Michigan will stage its fourth annual interscholastic relays Saturday, April 6, with a record field from throughout the Peninsula expected.

The Houghton Mining Gazette has named Dave Tucker of Ontonagon the Copper Country basketball coach of the year. Tucker, former Minnesota cager, guided his Polar Bears to a 19-2 season record, including victories in their first 15 starts. He has a 73-43 career record at Ontonagon. The Gazette named Houghton the Copper Country team of the year. Coach Fritz Wilson's Gremlins lost three of their first five games before stringing together 17 straight triumphs that took them to the state Class C tourney finals in East Lansing.

Marcel Verbrugghe came up with a 162 triplicate in the Bay de Noc bowling league this week while Swede Backlund hit a 245 single game league high. Ray Wahowiak topped the Classic with a 652 series, followed by Don Feller with 620, Phenix Benard 618, Bob Moran 616, Bob Trombly 614, Mike Heminger 606 and Dick Stanchina 602. Split pickers: Theresa Pepin 3-7, Lois Johnson and Margaret DeMarse 5-7, Elma Bjorkquist 5-8-10.

Coach Bill Howes will have three of his Rudyard starters back in action next season, and all of them top the 6-foot mark. State Class B champion River Rouge, the team that stopped Rudyard in the semifinals, has four of its starters returning next year.

Upper Peninsula bowling experts can't remember when the region produced as many 700 series as this season. The latest keggers to get into the act were Herbie Johnson of Menominee with a 706 at the Silver Dome and Joe Poirier with a 701 at Negaunee. Even the gals are joining the parade. Viv Carlson of Menominee spilled a 608 series this week, marking her fifth time over the 600 figure.

McAuliffe Fights For Regular Job In Tiger Lineup

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Young Dick McAuliffe, most competitive of all the Tigers, is fighting the biggest battle of his baseball career.

He has a regular job for the first time—and there's some possibility he'll lose it.

This is the kid who lives to play ball. He scraps, dirties his uniform diving after ground balls and sliding head-first into base.

His position could become precarious if he doesn't start hitting soon.

However, it's not likely McAuliffe will lose second base, the job he had secured, before the season opens.

"Right now there'll be no change," said Manager Bob Scheffing Thursday after Detroit was beaten 5-4 by the Washington Senators.

The defeat squared the Tigers' exhibition record at 10-10. "Mac's playing pretty good at second," Scheffing said. "He looks better in the field than he did last year and that's where he needed to improve."

Scheffing always liked McAuliffe's fire as a hitter—until the last few days. McAuliffe came up three times Thursday with a runner in scoring position. The best he did was roll the ball 15 feet in front of the plate. He struck out twice.

McAuliffe's slump has sliced his Grapefruit League average to .169, lowest of any Tiger regular. He's had only 10 hits in 59 trips.

And waiting any chance he can get is Jake Wood, batting a healthy springtime .306. Scheffing has projected Wood's name into almost every conversation about his regular infield.

Wood, who lost second base to McAuliffe last summer, has played in all but two exhibition games. His batting has made him one of the major surprises of the Detroit camp.

Scheffing took a look at three minor league pitchers against the Senators. But it was a Washington rookie who stole the show. Tom Brown, who rejected a pro football chance with the Green Bay Packers to sign with Washington, drove in three runs with a homer, double and single.

Writer Rips Defense; Slogan 'Had Enough'

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—Shortly after the war, one of the major political parties ran a national campaign with the slogan: "Had Enough?"

If boxing were the candidate on the same platform today my answer would be: "Yes."

Boxing should be abolished. Now, completely, for good.

It is difficult to think of a single argument in its defense that stands up, except perhaps that many of us have enjoyed watching some fights. We shouldn't be very proud of that when we consider that the ones we liked best were the ones where real punishment was dealt out.

Let's look at the defense. It gives poor boys a chance.

Hundreds who made millions are broke. Beau Jack went from shining shoes to shining shoes in 10 punishing years in the ring. The only thing he gets out of it today is bigger tips from the few customers who recognize the man at the other end of the rag.

It is a manly art. Foolishness. Every boxing gym in the country is cluttered with broken bits of former men, their brains scrambled, their faces pounded and smashed into grotesque shapes. Ring a bell and they spring to a fighting stance. It's always good for a laugh.

People get killed at other sports.

Killing is the object of boxing. Just listen to the crowd sometime. Or take a good look at contorted faces when one of our fellow human beings is being battered senseless. The ancient Romans couldn't have looked any uglier.

Sure, sometimes golfers are struck by lightning. And a dozen high school boys got killed playing football last year, but that wasn't the object of their game.

What appeal does this sport of boxing have for you and me?

We want to see one of the guys get hurt, that's what. Of course, we don't want him killed—even the Romans put their thumbs up once in a while.

But we pay to see the killers in the ring. Jack Dempsey outdrew them all. Scientific boxers can't make a dime.

You will hear it argued that a law to abolish boxing will be like Prohibition—people will go watch fights anyway, if they have to rent river barges for it. Nuts to that, too.

We have had enough of boxing. Take its license away, run it out of the big arenas, wipe it off the television screens, and you won't collect a big enough crowd to rent a row boat.

Butts May Face Finance Study

ATLANTA (AP)—A study of former Georgia Athletic Director Wally Butts' financial records was planned today by State Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook. Also on tap was a second lie detector test for an Atlanta insurance man who touched off a football rigging investigation.

Cook, who has been investigating a Saturday Evening Post article which charged collusion between Butts and Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, subpoenaed Butts' bank records Thursday. He said he has invited the former Georgia coach to appear for questioning.

Taking the lie detector test will be George Burnett, the Atlantan who was quoted in the Post as saying he was, by error, cut into a long distance telephone call between Butts and Bryant. Burnett said they were discussing the Georgia team and that the call was made eight days before the game, won by Alabama 35-0.

Butts and Bryant denied the charges of collusion and said the call was made only to discuss certain maneuvers and rules changes. They and Burnett all say they have taken lie detector tests and that they were shown to be telling the truth.

Penalties Burn Red Wing Boss; Play Home Next

CHICAGO (AP)—"It'll be different when we get home," vowed Detroit Coach Sid Abel Thursday night after his Red Wings had suffered a 5-2 shellacking at the hands of the Chicago Black Hawks in their Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs.

The triumph gave the Hawks a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 National Hockey League series but it also could prove to be an expensive one with the possibility of Bobby Hull missing Sunday's game in Detroit.

Hull, who originally was supposed to have missed the first two games of the series with an injured shoulder, not only played but scored two goals in the Hawks' 5-4 opening victory and his goal Thursday night lifted the Hawks into a 1-1 first period tie.

Hull's charge was halted with 50 seconds to play in the second period when he tangled with Bruce MacGregor's stick, suffering a broken nose which needed 10 stitches.

After Hull had scored his goal, Red Hay whipped in a pair in the second period for a 3-1 lead and Stan Mikita and Ab McDonald helped complete the rout with third period goals. Detroit, hampered by 13 penalties for a total of 37 minutes, had goals by Vic Stasiuk and Gordie Howe.

Abel, meanwhile, was doing a slow burn over the Detroit penalties assessed by referee Art Skov, who also hit the Hawks with eight for 16 minutes.

Abel's biggest squawk was about the 5-minute major penalty MacGregor drew when Hull was injured.

"There's nothing in the book about a 5-minute penalty for drawing blood," said Abel. "Hull faked the kid and was by him when he cut back and ran into the stick. So Hull gets cut and we get five minutes and all night long their five men on their ice against our three."

The Hawks took full advantage of the Detroit penalties and scored four of their goals while the Red Wings were short-handed.

The series now shifts to Detroit for games Sunday and Tuesday. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be in Chicago next Thursday.

Con Yagodzinski

Former Crusader Had Good Season With Frosh Quint

MILWAUKEE—Tom Flynn, 6-foot, 5-inch standout from Milwaukee Messner, topped Marquette university's freshman basketball team in scoring this year with 235 points and an 18.1 average in 13 games.

The brawny, shouldered, 215 pounder also led the Warrior yearlings in rebounding with 124, an average of 9.5 a game.

Only two other players, forward Con Yagodzinski of Escanaba and guard Bronson Haase of Waukeasha averaged in double figures. Yagodzinski scored 200 points for a 15.4 average and was the second leading rebounder with 90. Haase, the most accurate field goal shooter on the team with a 58.0 percentage, scored 163 points for a 12.6 average.

Flynn's 18.1 average just missed the school freshman mark of 18.5, set by Don Kojis during the 1957-58 season. His individual high game for the season was 32 points and he scored in double figures in all but one game.

Yagodzinski is quick and rugged on the boards and combined with Flynn to give the freshmen great rebounding power. Con also hit better than 47 per cent of his shots from the field. Haase came on strong after a slow start and averaged 17.5 points in the last five games of the season.

Yagodzinski, former Holy Name High School star, started all 13 games for the Warrior frosh team. He hit on 74 of 157 field goal attempts and 52 of 86 from the free throw line. He was charged with 39 personal fouls.

Two Redskins Selected To All-Big Eight

Hermansville, Carney and Felch landed two players each on the annual Big Eight all-conference basketball team selected this week by coaches.

Representing Coach Don Hill's Hermansville conference champions were Ron Povolo and Joe Arnold. Craig Berquist and Ken Blahnik of Carney were honored as were Laverne Buzzo and Ross Dixon of Felch. Joining them were Tom Konohe of Florence, Mike Nelson of Powers-Spaulding, Ron Lepisto of Alpha and Vince Roelle of Channing.

Among the players receiving honorable mention were Bob Callari and Bob Smith of Hermansville, Gary Gagne and Richard Roshak of Powers-Spaulding and Mike Moran of Carney.

Spartans Rally For 9-5 Victory

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Michigan State came from behind with a seven-run spurge in the ninth inning here Thursday and spoiled Virginia's baseball opener, 9-5.

Eleven Spartans went to the plate in the big ninth, which produced five hits—two of them by right-fielder Dick Billings—two walks, two Virginia errors and a pair of passed balls.

Virginia had taken a 4-2 lead in the fifth inning with three runs off MSU starter Doug Dobrei.

Michigan State's victory was its sixth in eight starts.

Supporter Says Cure, Don't Kill, The Sport

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Another death in the ring and cries of "abolish boxing" are being trumpeted around the world.

The biggest tears are shed by men who don't have to worry about where the next meal is coming from and whether there will be a roof over their heads, or whether there will be heat to keep their kids from freezing. Really want to abolish boxing? Easy, get rid of the slums; end the recurring depressions when a man will sell his soul for work to feed his starving family; stamp out the prejudice that makes it so hard for a person with the wrong color skin, religion or accent to get an even break in the world's rat race.

Sure, shed your tears—and rightly—for the death of Davey Moore. No one condones the loss of even one life if it can be prevented.

But first go to the slums in your own city, in Latin America. Go to the Far East and see the human derelicts dying on the streets because they never had a chance. Shed your tears for them.

Then wipe out this poverty, sickness, misery and hunger. Until that's done go to Dick Tiger, Fighting Harada, Battling Torres, Pone Kingpetch, Eder Jofre, Carlos Ortiz, Floyd Patterson, Sonny Liston, Barney Ross, Carmen Basillo, Rocky Graziano, Rocky Marciano, Joe Louis, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and the kids in the gyms of America. Mexico, Japan, Puerto Rico, South America, Africa and Europe and ask them whether they want boxing abolished.

Why do men enter the ring? To most it's the only way out of the depths, the fastest way to the top and a hope to be somebody; a chance to take their families out of the grinding poverty; a chance to hold their heads high.

The average guy takes more chances playing golf on a weekend on a municipal course than any well-conditioned fighter in the ring. The boxer knows what to expect. Those flying white balls can come at you from every side while you're trying to line up a putt.

The do-gooders say killing is the object of boxing. Baloney. It would have been wiped out years ago if that was the case. Pick out a sport where the opponents are more friendly before and after a match than boxing. You can't do it.

Sure boxing has its faults, no question about it. So has society. You don't kill a man when he's sick.

Don't abolish boxing. Cure it.

Royals Rally To Nip Celts

BOSTON (AP)—Confident Cincinnati, a team with momentum, has the jump on Boston's old pros in the Eastern Division playoff finals thanks in large part to Oscar Robertson and reserve Hub Reed.

Cincinnati returns home for the second game of the National Basketball Association tonight after whipping the Celtics 135-132 Thursday night in the opener of the best-of-7 series.

The Western Division finals between Los Angeles and St. Louis gets under way Sunday at Los Angeles.

Robertson scored 29 of his 43 points in the Royals' big second half, clicking on 68 per cent of his field goal tries.

"Reed played the big part in the second half," happy Cincy Coach Charlie Wolf said afterward. "He did a great job guarding Bill Russell. I don't believe Russell scored a point while Reed was in there."

"You can't play 24 minutes and expect to win," said Celtics star Bob Cousy, referring to a strong Boston first half when the five-time champions led by as much as 20 points.

Full Schedule Set For U. P. Bowling Meet

GLADSTONE—A full weekend schedule is slated for the 53rd annual Upper Peninsula Men's bowling tournament at the Midway lanes.

Saturday the action begins at noon with doubles and singles from the Ishpeming Charter team. The 3 p. m. shift includes doubles and singles from Escanaba and Marquette. At 6:30, teams from Gwinn, Iron Mountain, Manistique, Marinette, Oconto and Ishpeming will take the lanes. Escanaba and Marquette teams close the action at 9.

Sunday shifts begin at 12:15 p. m. with doubles and singles from Oconto, Iron Mountain, Marinette and Marquette. Eight teams from Escanaba will bowl at 3:30 and doubles and singles from Escanaba and Manistique will roll at 6.

Wayne Monson will lead a star-studded Oshkosh Loft Bar team against the Baraga Independents in the final game of the evening. The Oshkosh lineup will include Tom Hughbanks, star at Wisconsin last season, big Dean Austin, star at Oshkosh this season and Ray Neveau, former Niagara High School star. The three Clish brothers will lead a strong Baraga team.

Voters Will Select 6 Of 8 Bay College Board Candidates

Voters of Michigan will go to the polls on Monday, April 1, to elect several partisan state officers, say "yes" or "no" to the proposed new state constitution, and elect two justices of the state supreme court on a non-partisan ballot.

In Delta County the voters will also elect six trustees for the Bay de Noc Community College district from among a field of eight candidates.

The polls will open at 7 a. m. and will close at 8 p. m. A school of instruction for all election workers in the city will be held at 7 p. m. Friday at the Webster School, it is announced by City Clerk Don Guindon.

Absent Voter Ballots
Absent voter ballots for the April 1 biennial spring election are now available at the office of the clerk in the Escanaba City Hall. About 75 ballots have been issued so far. The deadline for applications is 2 p. m. Saturday, March 30.

The polling places in Escanaba are: First precinct—Carnegie Public Library; second—Franklin School; third—City Hall; fourth—Jefferson School; fifth—Junior High School; sixth—John A. Lemmer School; seventh—North Escanaba fire station; eighth—Webster School; ninth—Senior High School.

Bay de Noc Community College trustees will be elected for two, four and six-year terms in completing organization of the college district. The trustees compose the governing body of the community college. After the initial election, trustees will be elected for terms of six years.

College Candidates
The trustee candidates are: Six-year term—Charles Folio of Escanaba and Dr. Albert Jenke, Bark River. Two are to be elected and both are unopposed on the ballot.
Four-year term—Clayton Ford,

Cornell; Joseph L. Heirman, Escanaba; Anita R. Lewis, Gladstone. Two of the three will be elected.

Two-year term—Joseph Bal, Gladstone; James D. Dotsch, Garden; Robert F. Groos, Flat Rock. Two are to be elected.

Organization of the Bay de Noc Community College is moving forward and it is proposed to have the school in operation by next September. It will be located in the old Escanaba Senior High School building for the time being.

Charles Folio graduated from Escanaba High School and Western Michigan University, taught school and is director of the University of Michigan's Extension services in the Upper Peninsula and is a former member of the Escanaba Area Board of Education.

Dr. Albert Jenke is an alumnus of the University of Southern California and the University of Michigan. In Delta County since 1956, he practices medicine at Bark River.

Clayton Ford, Cornell farmer, has been active in agricultural and civic organizations in the county. He has served as an officer in the Farm Bureau, of the Lions Club, and on the Delta County School Board. Ford is among the county's most successful farmers and among the several who were top place winners in Potato Booster contests.

Joseph L. Heirman is a graduate of Escanaba High School, class of 1932, taught school and was Delta County agricultural agent for a number of years. He is now director of Michigan State University extension services in Delta County. Elected to the original Bay de Noc College board, he is now its president.

Anita R. Lewis was born in Gladstone, attended University of Michigan and Lawrence College Conservatory of Music, and is the widow of Seymour Lewis who died in 1951. Her daughters are in public school, one a junior in Gladstone High School the other in eighth grade. She operates a business she and her husband established in 1943. She is a member of the University of Michigan Alumni Club, the Coterie, the Child Welfare Club, is a director of the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce, and is Gladstone chairman of Michigan Week.

Joseph Bal of Gladstone is a graduate of Stambaugh High School, of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, and did graduate work at the University of Washington. He has been district engineer for the Michigan Water Resources Commission since 1949. In World War II he served 40 months in the U. S. Air Force. He is married and the Bals have five children, Toni, a freshman at Holy Name High School; Daniel, Thomas and Theresa at All Saints in Gladstone; and Nicholas at home.

James Dotsch of Garden is an alumnus of Northern Michigan College, taught school before going into business. He served as Garden Township supervisor and as 30th District state senator and as a state liquor commissioner.

Robert F. Groos, mechanical engineer graduate of Michigan Tech, Houghton, is employed by Escanaba Division of Mead Corp. and has headed the Escanaba Township Board of Education and been active in educational studies.

Schedule Removal Of 318 Children From Old School

The old Franklin School building will have the second floor vacated perhaps by Tuesday night, all of the children will be removed by about April 22, and a proposal to finance construction of a new Franklin School building will be placed before the voters before Sept. 1.

These decisions were made by the Escanaba Area Public Schools board of education in special meeting last night.

The intention to close the 81-year-old school building was voiced Tuesday night and the decision on when and how was made last night after administration study.

Basic to the decision are adverse reports from the state fire marshal and a structural engineer on the condition of the building constructed in 1882.

Fire Safety
Glenroy K. Walker, Michigan fire marshal, advised the board that the building has 31 fire safety check marks against it. Some of the more serious items are:

Either discontinue use of a "dead end" classroom on the second floor or provide "an approved means of egress from the building," meaning the construction of a fire escape to serve the one room.

Recommendation that a "qualified heating man" check the boiler and chimney; that automatic heat actuated dampers be installed to prevent the spread of smoke and flames throughout the building via the warm air circulating system. The dampers would automatically halt the fan motors.

The fire marshal also found that the chimney from the boiler room in passing up through the building heated the wall in one area "to a temperature that is uncomfortable to touch with the bare hand."

The fire marshal also recommended that a structural engineer be employed to determine the structural strength of the old building. This was done and the board received the report of Leonard Anhalt of a Milwaukee engineering firm on Tuesday night.

Anhalt reported to the board that:

There is "extreme sagging of the auditorium floor." (The children from the "dead end" classroom ordered vacated by the fire marshal had been moved into the auditorium, which the structural engineer decided was unsafe for groups.)

Poor Investment
Anhalt found a large crack in the foundation wall, deterioration in the masonry walls.

"Our general opinion is that, due to the structural problems in the areas mentioned above, the structure is not safe enough for continued unrestricted use as a school building," he said.

"If the school must be kept in temporary use, we advise that all floor areas with a sag or deflection as extreme as in the auditorium be limited to light loads only. This means that normal school traffic could be permitted but that group loads of any kinds be prohibited."

To reestablish the building for unrestricted school use would "necessitate major repairs" which Enhalt questioned on the basis of whether "the cost of the repair is a sound investment."

Study Building Plan
On the recommendation of Supt. Walter Bright the school board last night approved moving the Franklin School children of the kindergarten, first and second and ungraded rooms to the Webster School. This will be done as soon as feasible with the move completed by Tuesday night.

Children remaining in the building (grades 3, 4, 5 and 6 in six groups) will be all on the first floor, and they will be moved to the new Senior High School building perhaps before April 22 and if not shortly thereafter. On April 22 Senior High School students will occupy the new building. The Franklin School now houses a total of 318 children.

The question of financing replacement of the Franklin School by a bond issue will be submitted to the voters sometime before Sept. 1. Meanwhile the school board will continue to examine other buildings of good functional and economical design to determine the best type to build here.

Next meeting of the board has been scheduled for April 16 rather than the April 9 regular date because of a conflict of meetings.

Seney Refuge To Get Construction

The Interior Department has awarded an $83,960 contract to Kaysner Construction Co. of Sault Ste. Marie for construction of a visitors center, sewer system, water supply and parking area at Seney National Wildlife Refuge, announces Senator Pat McNamara.

strategy group—holding its first session since Feb. 5—although Andrew Hatcher, assistant presidential press secretary, declined to say in advance what the group would consider.

Administration authorities also showed rising concern over the free lance raids by Cuban refugees. Reports from Miami Thursday said two anti-Castro groups, Alpha 66 and the Second National Front of Escambray, are preparing still another assault.

Two Soviet ships in Cuban harbors were attacked by anti-Castro raiders March 18 and 26. The U.S. government has officially condemned the forays as ineffective, irresponsible and tending only to strengthen the Communist grip on Cuba.

While the Kennedy administration tended to look the other way when such attacks have been made in the past, authorities said the situation is different now that the Soviets have become so heavily involved in Cuba. They said the raids could have the unwanted effect of stiffening Soviet intentions to stay on in Cuba.

Roosevelt Takes Tokyo Trio On His New Cabinet Post

TOKYO (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. said today trade between Japan and Communist China "of course is a question for Japan to decide."

The new U.S. undersecretary of commerce added that the question does not appear to be very important at the present time because "we don't know what you are going to sell them or how they are going to pay for it."

Roosevelt arrived in Tokyo Thursday night to officiate at the opening Tuesday of the new U.S. Trade Center in downtown Tokyo.

Traffic court summons have been issued by Escanaba police to Norman T. Stuart, Kingsford, improper backing, and to Robert N. Schultz, Mendon, Mich., defective head light.

Tom Marrier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Marrier, 300 N. 13th St., has qualified for a trip to Washington, D.C., through his efforts as a carrier salesman for the Escanaba Daily Press. Any Press carrier who reaches 50 points in the current Press and magazine subscription contest qualifies for the trip in the last week of April. This is the final week of the contest. Carriers have through Saturday to qualify.

Kenneth Kralik, Manistique carrier of the Escanaba Daily Press, has qualified for the Washington, D.C. trip April 29 to May 2 by selling subscriptions to the Daily Press and popular magazines.

Larry Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lewis, 1108 Sheridan Rd., will visit Washington, D.C. on a trip with other newspaperboys from Escanaba, Marquette and Iron Mountain. Larry qualified with 50 points for the trip by selling subscriptions to the Press and magazine subscription through the Economy Reading Plan. The contest ends this Saturday with several other carriers striving to qualify for the trip. When a carrier reaches 100 points he receives the four day trip with all expenses free.

The Escanaba Daily Press has expanded its circulation to the Newberry area. This means 200 more subscribers with more to come. This is valuable additional coverage to Press advertisers.

Kin Of 2 Pilots Lost Over Cuba Asking For Help

ghost of it once and for all.

A week before the flight, Thompson, visiting his hometown, told Charleston Daily Mail photographer Chet Hawes he had made 11 flights over Cuba, dropping guns, explosives and leaflets to aid anti-Castro guerrillas.

"He said he was paid $1,000 a flight—and was still owed for eight trips," Hawes recalled. "He showed me a letter from the (U.S.) State Department warning him not to fly over Cuba again and explained he got it after an arms-drop flight on which he ran low on gas and had to land at Key West."

A refugee Cuban farmer, who asked that his name be withheld, told the Pompano Beach Sun-Sentinel he saw a twin-engine Piper Apache make a low pass over the city of Matanzas, in Matanzas Province, dropping anti-Castro leaflets, on Dec. 15, 1961.

The plane, he said, was hit by anti-aircraft fire and crashed into a sugar mill, killing both pilots.

Postal Workers Get Negotiation Rights 1st Time

Escanaba Post Office has acted to implement the Post Office Department's new program for negotiation and consultation on grievances, working conditions, personnel practices and other related matters. Postmaster James E. Pryal reported today.

The move recognizes federal employe organizations for the first time. Recognition is based on results of the largest nationwide labor management election June 15-July 1, 1962, in which 451,000 postal employes participated.

Results at the Escanaba post office were:

United Federation of Postal Clerks and National Association of Letter Carriers were given exclusive recognition and the National Association of Post Office and General Services Maintenance Employees exclusive recognition at the national level.

Exclusive recognition was acquired by employe organizations having a clear majority of the vote in a particular craft unit under prescribed voting procedures. The postmaster will negotiate with these organizations, holding regular meetings and working out written agreements on matters affecting all employes in the craft unit represented regardless of employe membership status.

National agreements give local employe organizations the right to deal with the postmaster on local working conditions, personnel practices and in resolving interpretations under the local agreements.

The national agreements reiterate President Kennedy's Executive Order 10988's ban against strikes and discrimination. They set forth management's prerogatives which are not subject to negotiation—such as the budget, assignment of personnel, work technology or any matter determined by Congress, such as pay rates. Postal management, under the executive order, retains the right to direct employes, to hire, promote, transfer, suspend or sever employes in accord with civil service regulations.

The employees of the Escanaba post office, now receiving official recognition at the local level for their employe organization, join with the employes in more than 30,000 post offices throughout the nation in acquiring official recognition.

Ten employe organizations representing seven postal craft units—letter carriers, clerks, rural carriers, maintenance—custodial, motor vehicle, mail handlers, special delivery messengers—have been recognized. The number of organizations represented at each post office varies, according to the election results.

Postmaster Pryal will attend a conference in Chicago April 1-2 to school postmasters in responsibilities for negotiating, preparing, and administering labor-management agreements.
